I used to be plagued by constant 'sore tummy' when I was little with lots of unknowns. Reflecting back I realise that made me introverted, shy and played often alone in my room

Neil ... (Un)Learning

Our response: A Zine around the topic of (Un)Learning through Play. As part of our exploration we held an Exquisite Corpse workshop as a way to create new playful co-created narratives:

Personal Collective Storytelling.

Participants were asked to draw a top, middle or bottom. In response to a memory or a personal story. This story was about something disered to be unlearnt/ an experience of unlearning or a memory of being genuinely lost in play.
